VOL. XXV, ISSUE 3

Caesar

It has been one year since I was adopted from TALGV when I was about five months old. My dad celebrated by getting me a massage, pedicure, and a piece of filet mignon. I am not spoiled, however. I sometimes share my leather recliner with him but he is not allowed to use my wading pool. I figure I'll have him fully trained in a few more months. Here is a photo of me in my best Humphrey Bogart pose.

Thanks for rescuing me,
Caesar

Sammy

John and I adopted Sammy, the Siamese, in July. He chose to hide under our bed for the first five days. On day five I coaxed him out with a toy. We spent some time with him on my lap. Several days later, at our small women's bible study, Sammy didn't run and hide. To our surprise he greeted each lady, let them pet him, and settled in the midst of us. He now sleeps at the foot of our bed each night. When he's hungry he walks all over us. He's quick to play, eat his treats, and sit on our laps with a rumbling purr. It's always his choice. We enjoy him so much. Thanks for operating such a "classy" rescue place. We've spread the word. I hope this letter makes your day smile.

Sincerely,

Patrice Roberts

Maggie

We adopted Maggie (then Co-Co) a little over a year ago. She had many issues and it took almost a year of training, medication and consistent work to get her fully integrated into our family - my husband, me and two standard poodles. She is exceedingly sweet and she and the younger poodle are now best friends. Maggie's story has a very happy ending.

Best Regards,

Lynn Carey

Neo, Rama & Dexter

Neo

Just to let everyone know that Neo and Rama are eating well and have begun to venture out to explore the house. They don't seem intimidated by our boxer dog

Rama

Dexter

at all. They seem to realize that he's pretty easygoing. They seem to have a "tag team" approach to their exploration. If one of them comes out then the next appearance will be the other. They are both real characters.

Dexter is wonderful; what a personality! Neo and Rama are coming along well and will be soon be fully integrated...just as long as we don't look at them. We are so happy to have helped you with the donation and adoptions, but we feel that we are the ones that really made out like bandits. Again, thank you all so much.

Best Regards,

Kathleen Rossi

Coco

The day my puppy, Coco, was spayed I happened to walk into the waiting area a little early. I was overwhelmed with what I saw...so many volunteers sitting and furnishing light massage or petting. The caring and unconditional love was boundless. My experience with your organization has been simply wonderful. My hat is off to all of you, and in particular, Kareen, for helping me with all the decisions and paperwork. Please use this donation in any way you need it. It's but a small token compared to the work and caring you all continue to do on a daily basis.

Sincerely,

Dave Hoefer

Calli

Three years ago was the best day of my life when TALGV took me to an expo where I was adopted by two wonderful people. I was a barn cat from Gleason and rescued by a wonderful lady who brought me to TALGV. I now have a big house to run around in and all the toys, good food and loving a cat could ever want. My new mom and dad say they have never had a cat like me and that I give them much joy every day. I am going to keep giving them all the love and joy they want because I love them too!

Thank you TALGV and Kathy from Gleason!
